

The Future of Internationalisation Panel

COVID-19 has forced us to stop, re-assess and rethink our approach to international education – not only in terms of international student recruitment, but also in terms of international learning experiences. Panel members explore the future of internationalisation, how our approaches have shifted and the opportunities that lie ahead.

date

THURSDAY 26th NOV

time

3:00 – 4:15 PM

venue

Gallery, 137 St Georges Terrace

online

<https://www.eventbrite.com.au/e/curtin-academy-celebration-panel-discussion-tickets-128445707569>

Panel chair //

Professor seth KUNIN

Professor Seth Kunin has been Deputy Vice-Chancellor, International at Curtin University since 2016. In this role, he leads the University's international activities, including strategic policy, international marketing strategy, and international partnerships.

Prior to joining the University, he was Vice-Principal, Internationalisation at the University of Aberdeen and also held senior roles at Durham University.

A prominent anthropologist, Professor Kunin attained his Bachelor of Arts from Columbia University in New York and his PhD in Anthropology from University of Cambridge in UK. His research focused on the application of structuralist theory and methodology to Jewish texts and culture.

PANELLISTS:

Professor simon LEUNIG

Professor Simon Leunig is the Pro Vice-Chancellor & President, Curtin Malaysia

Simon has nearly 20 years experience in offshore marketing, transnational and international education. He has vast experience in developing strategic alliances and education initiatives in Asia, Europe, Africa and the Middle East, including links with major Asian Universities. He has a Masters Degree in Education from UWA, a MBA from ECU as well as a Bachelors Degree in Physical Education from UWA, Simon has also graduated from the MDP for Higher Education Managers conducted by Harvard University.

Professor
lina
PELLICCIONE

Professor Lina Pelliccione is the inaugural Pro-Vice Chancellor of Curtin Mauritius and commenced her role in January 2019. Prior to this role Professor Pelliccione held a number of senior positions at Curtin University since she began in a full-time capacity in 2001. Professor Pelliccione was the Head of the School of Education since 2010 prior to taking up the role of Deputy Pro-Vice Chancellor of the Faculty of Humanities in February, 2018. She was selected to attend a number of prestigious courses such as the Harvard Management Leadership Institute for Higher Education 2016 and the Chief Executive Women's Leadership 2018.

Professor
linley
LORD

Professor Linley Lord commenced her role as Pro Vice chancellor and President of Curtin Singapore in April 2018. Prior to that Linley spent six years as Chair of Curtin's Academic Board. During that time she also spent four years as the Academic Director of the Curtin Leadership Centre and was co-lead for the University's Athena SWAN Bronze application which was awarded to Curtin in 2018.

CONTACT US
Curtin Academy
Curtin University
E-mail: curtinacademy@curtin.edu.au
www.curtin.edu.au/cli/curtin_academy

CRICOS Provider Code 00301J

PEOPLE people-centred PEDAGOGY globally-placed PRACTICE
paradigm-shifters

Proudly organised by:

Curtin
ACADEMY

"Making the invisible, visible"